   - [x] Now in Print, or [ ] Proposed Below:
   This class builds upon the skills students learned in Beginning Radio Production (COMM 1560) in the areas of programming, performance, and production. This course is intended for students who have completed 1560 and want to continue the following semester as Disc Jockeys/Announcers. The course is also required for the Student Managers of the station who will also utilize the class to direct the student staff. Students will add to their programming and production skills by promoting on location promotions, on-air promotions, underwriting, and effective program scheduling.

7. Course justification (attach sheets if needed):
   This is a request to delete the existing Comm 2560 course, which is titled "Advanced Radio Production." We are adding an upper-division course with this same title, Comm 3370, and a new "Beginning Radio Production" course, Comm 2370. In the end, we will have one lower-division class (beginning) and one upper-division class (advanced). Hence, this course needs to be deleted.
