5. Is this course designed for a specific group? No
   Who?

6. Catalog Description: No in Print, or □ Proposed Below:

   Explores all aspects of consumer and commercial credit management with the intent of acquainting the student with the various types and proper uses of credit so that his/her personal and business experiences with credit will be positive ones. Attention will be given to such personal/consumer areas as loans, mortgages, credit cards, etc. Commercial credit topics will include business credit, factoring, financial analysis and reporting agencies, the management of consumer credit by businesses, and credit issuance and collection policies. Completers should be able to properly manage their own personal credit or their business's consumer or commercial credit. Prerequisites: ACCT 2020, ENGL 2010, FIN 3150, and advanced standing in the business baccalaureate program. 3 lecture hours per week.

7. Course justification (attach sheets if needed):

   Addition of prerequisite FIN 3150. This requires students to have the basic academic foundation necessary to successfully complete the course. Number change from FIN 3150 to FIN 4180 better reflects the rigor of the course.
